DEFINITION

> The Turkish alphabet consists of 29 letters, each representing a specific sound. Understanding these letters is essential for reading and writing in Turkish.

KEY CONCEPTS

Vowels

Turkish has 8 vowels that are pronounced clearly and consistently, crucial for correct pronunciation.

Consonants

There are 21 consonants in Turkish, many of which have similar sounds to English but may differ in pronunciation.

Unique Letters

The Turkish alphabet includes unique letters like 'ç', 'ğ', 'ı', 'ö', and 'ş' that are not found in English.

Pronunciation Rules

Each letter has a specific pronunciation, and there are rules for how letters combine in words.

Capitalization

Turkish capitalizes letters similarly to English, but some letters like 'i' change to 'İ' when capitalized.

EXAMPLES

→ A - Apple, B - Book, Ç - Cheese

→ D - Dog, E - Elephant, F - Fish

MEMORY TIPS

★ Associate each letter with an English word that starts with the same sound.

★ Use flashcards to visualize and repeat the letters regularly.

★ Create a song or rhyme to remember the order of the letters.

COMMON MISTAKES

✗ Confusing 'i' with 'ı' as they sound different.

✗ Mispronouncing unique letters like 'ç' and 'ş'.

✗ Forgetting to capitalize Turkish letters correctly.
